THESES AND DISSERTATIONS FOR HIGHER DEGREES

(1) Where carbon copies of theses and dissertations are submitted it is essential that all four copies should be legible.

(2) If a thesis or dissertation is submitted in type-script, the pages of each copy must be securely fastened together, and if possible a suitable folder or binder should be used.

(3) The University cannot accept responsibility for the loss of a part of a thesis or dissertation consisting of loose pages.

(4) In some cases it may be possible for one copy of a successful thesis or dissertation to be returned to the candidate on application after the Examination. No guarantee, however, can be given about the return of theses or dissertations, and if candidates know they will need a copy after the Examination, they should arrange for a fifth copy to be prepared for their own use.
